Three Tales of Ngari

A wonderful and magical performance for children from 8 years upward - but not only for children.

Within a magical atmosphere, 6 monks - 3 musicians and 3 actors and dancers - from Sera Jey Monastery Ngari Khangtsen assisted by a narrator bring alive for you some legends of this Himalayan region ; where we heard about imprints of the yeti in snow, about a magician who leave his footprints in rock, where we meet animals who speak the language of men and other extraordinary beings.

“Since time immemorial, I widely fly over the roof of the world... I shape clouds, stroke valleys and sculpt high mountains of the Land of Snow. In summer, I make the crops and the vast fields covered with wild flowers ripple. Green waters of immaculate lakes shive as i pass. In winter, my icy breath hardens the snow and penetrates everywhere, even in the depth of yack's wool.

For centuries, i have blown over nomad's camps, villages and palaces. I heard and carry with me amazing stories told by men nearby the flammes of a fire under a starry sky. In the same way that i spread altruistic prayers written on 'wind horses', these coloured flags hung at snowy summits for the benefit of all beings, i will today whisper for you the magnificent legends of the Ngari region.”
